At 3 A. M.

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTA, May 16.—Twenty-five persons were killed, 13 were injured and many others were missing in a fire which raged early today through the five-story terminal hotel.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said it was the deadliest fire in the history of Atlanta.

With 25 bodies removed from the ruins, at least a score of persons were unaccounted for under various estimates of the registration.

Identifications hampered by destruction of the hotel records and mutilation of the victims by falling timber and steel hampered identification efforts.

The ruined walls stood as a menace to traffic and rescue workers.

A high wind was blowing from the north.

Collapses of the roof, plunging debris through charred floors to the pavement, cut off hope of survival for any who were trapped. Only the walls were left standing.

How attacks said "at least 50" were registered when the flames broke out with an explosion in the basement kitchen shortly after 3 a. m.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said he was informed 60 were in the brick and frame building.

Leap From Windows

Five persons jumped. One man, unidentified, who leaped from a fourth floor window, died of a broken neck.

Three other men were suffocated. Ben L. Berry, 78-year-old hotel clerk and G. R. Kimberly, 34, a salesman, were burned on the hands in rescue work.

E. Palestine Group Planning to Erect Conservation Dams

E. H. Mitchell has been named chairman of a committee to supervise construction of three conservation dams on Bull creek below Peace Valley park by members of the Unity Township Fish and Game club.

Working with Mitchell on the project are Harry Blitcher, Ray Hulst, "Wilky" Abbot and Thomas McIntosh. The dams will be constructed of stone and are to be completed within three weeks on portions of the creek leased by the club.

Recent membership drives have boosted the club roster to 212, according to R. R. Spanabel, president.

HIGH STUDENTS WIN AT OBERLIN

Soloists, Ensemble Take First; Hoprich In National Contest

Dorothy Krauss, soprano, and Harold Hoprich, bassoon player, won first places in the state music contest at Oberlin Saturday and the Salem High school miscellaneous string ensemble received a similar rating. Band Director C. M. Brautigam announced today.

Members of the quartet are Gusty Conja and Robert Boughton, violinists and Geraldine Fickes, pianist.

Third place awards went to Joseph Cooper, tuba player, and the saxophone quartet, composed of Henry Paulin, Jack Wright, Anna Simon and Jack Warner.

Because there are no national contests for vocal soloists and miscellaneous groups, Harold Hoprich will be the lone entrant from Salem in the national music tournament at Elkhart, Ind., Thursday.

Accompanying him to Elkhart will be Mary Louise Emery, pianist, and director Brautigam.

Salem Commandery At Niles K. T. Rally

NEW CONGRESS TEST SEEN ON OFFICES BILL

Roosevelt Encouraged By Revival of Administration Strength

LEADER RAYBURN IS "NOT SURE YET"

In Meantime, Election-Year's Adjournment Pleas Increase

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Revival of administration strength in congress, it was learned today, may encourage President Roosevelt's lieutenants to try to push through the controversial government reorganization bill before the session closes.

The house pigeonholed the measure last month, but two Democratic members are conducting a survey to determine whether there has been any change of sentiment among opponents.

There has been no public indication that any appreciable number of representatives would switch their positions.

Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas commented:

"I would be glad to have a reorganization bill passed at this session, but we are not sure yet whether we will try to revive the controversy. If we get the bill up, it will pass."

Election-year pleas for early adjournment are increasing, however, and Democratic chiefs are making every effort to clear the congressional slate by the middle of June.

A senate appropriations subcommittee, starting hearings today, hopes to send the administration's $3,154,000,000 relief bill to the senate floor this week.

Despite projected efforts by a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats to amend it drastically, leaders forecast senate passage of the house-approved legislation early next week.

The wage-hour bill, keystone of President Roosevelt's social and economic program, will receive house consideration next Monday.

Although anticipating prompt house approval, leaders conceded the measure might encounter a

MARINO DEATH HEARING OPENS

Steubenville Man Faces Court; Nine Jurors Are Seated

YOUNGSTOWN, May 16.—Nine persons were seated tentatively this morning as jurors to try John Anthouls of Steubenville on a first degree murder charge growing out of the gang slaying of Roy ("Happy") Marino, ex-convict and petty racketeer whose slug-riddled body was found near Rogers Sept. 10.

The courtroom was crowded as Judge Erskine Maiden, Jr., opened the case, the first of three on the same indictment. Solly Hart of Cleveland and his alleged associate, Herbert Ross, will follow Anthouls to trial.

Two other suspects still are at large.

A special venire of 75 persons was called for the case. Selection of the jury progressed rapidly this morning, but it was indicated that both sides might resort to peremptory challenges.

Central Clinic Operating As Non-Profit Institution

Will Participate In Distribution of Community Chest Funds for First Time This Year

The Central Clinic hospital, included in the Community Chest for the first time this year, has been operating a non-profit institution since 1936.

Under new articles of incorporation, the association specifies that "any surplus or net income shall in no case be distributed to nor inure to the benefit of any member nor any other individual, but shall be used for the purpose of improving and maintaining the hospital and its equipment, for research and for the care and treatment of the worthy indigent sick and disabled."

Officers of the corporation shall serve without pay, according to Article 3 of the by-laws.

The hospital of 30 beds is in charge of trustees, with Dr. Gail A. Rose as president and Miss Leeta M. Gibson as secretary of the association.

Article 2 of the incorporation provides that "in the event of dissolution the debts of the corporation shall first be paid. Any money or property then remaining shall be given to the City of Salem."

During 1937 the Central Clinic treated a total of 633 patients, of whom 204 were medical and 312 surgical cases. Births for the year totaled 59, and there were 30 deaths. The average daily census was 18.5.

Seven graduate nurses are employed at the hospital.

Pay patients numbered 562, part pay 42, free 29. The average number of days treatment was 10.6.

PENNSYLVANIA ASKING GUARDS

Police Will Be On Job As Tuesday's Ballots Are Counted

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Extraordinary police precautions were prepared today against irregularities when Pennsylvania votes tomorrow after a slam-bang primary campaign that may foreshadow events to come in the presidential election of 1940.

At least two voices were raised in an appeal for observers from the U. S. senate to join the police at polls in Philadelphia.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, himself a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, issued a statement "guaranteeing to all citizens that their rights (to vote without coercion or interference, will be protected."

Eleventh-Hour Charges

Meanwhile, candidates went at it in eleven-hour charges and counter charges—with a debate over whether Labor Leader John L. Lewis is a major issue-dominating some exchanges among warring Democrats.

Lewis and Senator Joseph P. Guffey are backing Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for governor along with Mayor Wilson for the senate.

Against this lineup is the state Democratic committee's slate featuring Gov. George H. Earle for senator and Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, for governor.

Charles J. Margiotti, still turning up new charges against the Earle administration on the very eve of the balloting, is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination independently.

The immediate stake among the Democrats is party control and the state's 72 national convention votes. The risk in their intra-New Deal

FARLEY ENTERS PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY FIGHT

Supports Kennedy For Governor, Earle For Senator

SAYS STRUGGLE IMPERILS PARTY

"Double Cross!" Cries Mayor Wilson, Earle's Opponent

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 16.—Openly entering into the controversial Democratic political situation in Pennsylvania, James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the party's national committee, today announced his support of Tom Kennedy for governor and George H. Earle for senator.

Farley said he did so because he thought the struggle within the ranks of the Democrats "imperils the success of the party in the November election."

Kennedy, now lieutenant governor, has the backing of John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, and of U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey (D-Pa.).

The state Democratic committee's candidate for governor in the primary is Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer.

On the other hand, Earle is the committee's candidate for senator, while Guffey and Lewis are backing Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia for that post.

"Double Cross!" Cries Wilson
PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Mayor S. Davis Wilson cried "double-cross" today when told that Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley had declared for Gov. George H. Earle for the senatorial nomination in tomorrow's Pennsylvania primary.

Farley did not mention Wilson, Earle's opponent, in his New York assertion that Pennsylvania Democrats should get together on Earle for the senate and CIO-backed Thomas Kennedy for governor.

Kennedy and Wilson are on a Democratic ticket supported by John L. Lewis and U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey against the Democratic state committee's slate of Earle for senator and Pitts-

DEBATE STATE'S RELIEF PLIGHT

Ohio Legislature Gathers Today to Renew Attack On Problem

COLUMBUS, May 16.—Ohio's legislature gathered today for another assault on a mounting poor relief problem, but leaders were openly pessimistic over the prospects of enacting a program speedily.

Speaker Frank Uible asserted that after sessions tomorrow the house probably would recess for committee work. He added:

"There is no possibility of enacting a major bill this week."

The Cleveland representative, a power in the lower chamber, said he believed there would be no attempt to lower from 65 per cent to a majority the favorable vote needed for special relief tax levies but that such a change in statutes might be made for issuing bonds against anticipated revenue.

Uible declined to hazard a guess as to when a program might be enacted.

"If it can't be done in three or four weeks," he said, "it can't be done at all."

Vote Board Seeks Bids On Supplies

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 16.—Bids for poll books and other supplies for the coming primaries and general elections will be opened May 19 when the Columbiana county board of elections meets.

Bids for ballots will be opened June 15. Both bids cover materials for the 111 precincts in the county.

The clerk, members of the board and all election officials in Ohio have been summoned to Columbus May 23 and 24 to attend a meeting called by William J. Kennedy, secretary of state.

Program at Church

An enjoyable program was presented last Sunday at Phillips Church of Christ, south of Salem. Musical numbers by F. J. Yingling, T. R. Swartz and a junior choir under the direction of Mrs. Ella Satterthwaite were features.

BULLETS HALT EAGLES LODGE HOLDUP PLOT

Youngstown Men Walk Into Trap Set By County Deputies, State Highway Patrolmen and E. Palestine Policemen

SOUGHT $400 IN LODGE'S SAFE

"Door Man" Lookout and Automobile Driver Escape As Officers Open Fire On Inside; Former Believed Wounded

EAST PALESTINE, May 16.—A posse of Salem state highway patrolmen, Columbiana county deputy sheriffs and East Palestine police, in spectacular fashion—shot and killed two of four bandits who attempted to hold up the Eagles club rooms on Taggart st. at 2:15 a. m. today.

Mike Lepushan, 23, and John Yurko, 31, were the gunmen who were slain. They were identified by Detectives Fickes and Huffman of Youngstown. The bodies were removed to the Oliver funeral home here.

Acting on a tip, the officers had stayed at the Eagles club all evening. All were in plain clothes.

The lodge had a meeting and initiation Sunday night, attended by approximately 400 persons.

The officers scattered themselves throughout the club rooms prior to the gunmen's arrival. Chief of Police Walter H. Warren and Patrolman George Nulf of East Palestine hid in a room off the main bar room. Deputy Sheriff Mike Dudy was in another ante room nearby.

Hidden half-way up the stairs leading from the front hall were Corp. W. B. Arey, head of the Salem state highway patrol barracks and Chief Deputy Sheriff John Herman.

Across the street from the lodge were Deputy Sheriff Roy Case and Patrolman Paul Early of East Palestine.

When the gunmen arrived, after the crowd had dispersed, Lepushan and Yurko accosted Sergeant Mock and John Mansell, 42, janitor at the club, who were hiding in the lavatory adjoining the main bar room.

Door Still Open

The third bandit loitered near the entrance to the bar room. The crowd which had attended the Eagles ceremony had remained late and therefore the front door was still open, providing access for the bandits.

With a couple of oaths, the two gunmen announced to Mock and Mansell that there was going to be a stick-up. The pair "friked" Mansell and ordered him to lie on the floor. In searching Sergeant Mock next they overlooked his service revolver which he carried in a holster. The officer, too, was ordered to the floor.

"I thought they'd shoot us both if they found the sergeant's gun," Mansell related later. "I sure got a thrill when they were searching him."

Deputy Sheriff Mike Dudy opened fire from the darkened room.

AN ARTIST AND HIS WORK

Considerable space in the Sunday edition of a newspaper in this district was devoted to Charles Burchfield, a former Salem man who is recognized as America's outstanding water color artist. Basis for the article was the writer's wild imagination that that Salem is "mad" and insulted by Burchfield's paintings. The people of this city are quoted as feeling that their civic pride has been insulted because the artists painted scenes familiar to him during his younger days in Salem.

The people of Salem, it so happens, are extremely proud of Charles Burchfield and his achievements. They eagerly read any reference to him and his works and proudly acclaim any new recognition given to him. They have traveled long distances to see and admire his paintings. They have found the modesty and wholesome character of the artist reflected in the warmth and naturalness of his scenes.

The statement that these friends of Burchfield, who watched him develop his unusual talents from boyhood, are puffed because he recalled some of the scenes so familiar to him many years ago, is an insult to the intelligence of this community. The only "traitor to his home community" in this instance is the writer of the article, another former Salem man who unfortunately never was able to feel the pulse of the community.

THE WORST IS RARE IN SPRINGTIME

It's traditional that everybody believes the worst of a frost in May, while hoping for the best. Like the frigid frosts which sometimes blight young love in springtime, the blight of a late frost rarely proves to be as severe or permanent as was feared at first.

The morning after a frost, like the morning after a lovers' quarrel, is probably the worst of all possible times to pass judgment. Yet, due to the well established habit of humankind of trying to reach decisions too quickly after rising, frosts and quarrels in springtime both are over-emphasized before the sun has had its inalienable right to undo the damage.

Getting down to facts, it's good to know that farmers and orchardists trying to estimate recent frost damage are inclined to believe it was pretty bad, but not so bad as they thought it was at first.

BIRTH OF A NEW PARTY

Politically speaking, the country has become so interested in the birth of twins in Wisconsin recently that it's in danger of ignoring an announcement of the birth of quintuplets in Washington.

The stand taken against pump priming last week by the Republican minority in congress, in other words, was infinitely more important as a political birth announcement than the recent announcement of the La Follette's third party.

It was more important for two reasons: the fact that the Republican party is one of two national parties, and the fact that its position provides a rallying point for belief that the fiscal policy adopted by the Roosevelt administration must be reversed, if disaster is to be averted.

Republican strategy up to this time has been to lie low. This strategy developed from conviction that the time for direct opposition had not yet arrived. In preparation for the next presidential election, apparently, Republican leadership has decided to become aggressive.

Party principles are to be set forth plainly. The party will attempt to develop popular support by means of a questionnaire distributed among its members, giving them an opportunity to state their own views.

In short, it will attempt to become an effective opposition, at last. Congressional gains this year are probable. The depression has proved that the majority's leadership should be subjected to popular criticism—a point which was hard to carry even as recently as two years ago.

With that handicap removed and with additional spending discounted in advance by the previous failure of the same policy, the Republican party at last has a fighting chance to perform the function of a political opposition.

DISPOSSESSED

There are few genuinely dramatic moments permitted in the making of history. The carpenters and scene shifters usually are too busy to let the actors have the stage in this more than ever realistic world. But accidentally, because the "realists" were too busy with their realism, perhaps, to care, Haile Selassie did hold the world stage for a tense instant last week. Frail, sick—too sick to speak above a whisper—he sat in the League of Nations council room at Geneva while his agents placed the case of Ethiopia before its members. The League had failed one of its members. It had failed itself. What would it do?

He knew it was a gesture of futility, not only his own futility but that of all men who had dreamed of collective security. The argument droned on, to no avail.

When it was finished, Haile Selassie rose, bowed and quietly left the chamber. The dispossessed emperor of the last black empire on earth had told the white men what was wrong with their civilization without speaking a word.

It was superb pantomime—one of those dramatic flashes which reveal more about history than historians can tell in volumes.

KENNEDY'S DEMOCRATIC TACTICS SHOCK BLUE-BLOODS

By DEWITT MacKENZIE,
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer.

NEW YORK, May 16.—His excellency, the new American ambassador to the Court of St. James, Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, has precipitated among our British cousins a democratization argument which reaches from John O'Grato's to Land's End and has caused shockingly high blood pressure.

The debate revolves about Mr. Kennedy's democratic ideas in connection with America's annual participation in the pomp and splendor of the royal court.

The First Shock

First of all he startled England (to put it mildly) and shocked the four thousand of this country no end by barring presentation at court to United States women and debutantes who were merely visitors to Britain and not residents there.

In other words, he abolished a cherished custom involving the yearly race of our fair ones for the privilege of curtsying before royalty and basking in the glow of the queen's big Kohinoor diamond.

Mr. Kennedy said he considered "undemocratic" the practice of American ambassadors in selecting every year a "small number of young ladies from a long list, very few, if any, of whom he has ever seen." He didn't add, as he might have done, that the difficulty of selecting the few from among so many heavily sponsored ladies also was a terrific headache.

Came the big night and the ambassador further challenged custom by appearing at court in ordinary evening garb, instead of the regulation silk knee-breeches. He didn't announce whether it was democracy or discretion which impelled this.

Then the Newspaper Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express added fuel to the controversial fire by coming out with an editorial—amazing for England—calling for democratization of the royal courts. The Express, circulating throughout the kingdom, demanded:

"Must the hard-working, wage-earning class be denied the right of the sight of the king and queen on such occasions simply because they do not know the right people to present them? Not the courts but the presenting aspects of the courts, as a field for influence and position, should be put out of cultivation. (This refers to the fact that nobody can go to court without being presented by some highly placed person who already has entree to this charmed circle—D. M.)

"King George should let that nonsense go. The wage-earning section of the people are as good as the alleged upper crust. The tylist at her desk is more useful than the rich man's daughter lolling at a cocktail bar."

More To It

Actually, there's a good deal more to the regal display in courts than meets the eye. Most Britons will tell you that you cannot dissociate royalty from its prestige.

The king and queen are human, but symbols of the might and spirit of empire.

As a matter of fact, the average Englishman wants to look far up to his sovereign, and revels in the traditional display of grandeur.

Further, the Briton will point to the vital necessity of maintaining the prestige of the throne among the haughty princes of India. These great potentates bow to nothing but the king-emperor. So after all, the glitter of the royal courts are a part of the cement which holds together the empire.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland,
New York City.

STY

A mother wants advice about the prevention of sties which she says her baby has. They are not as common in infants as they are in young adults and those who are careless about the hygiene of the eyes.

The sty, or "hordeolum" as the doctors call this annoying condition, is in a sense a small boil of the eyelid. It is caused by an infection of one of the glands found in the margin of the lid.

The little abscess forms when pus develops. Then there will be redness and very soon the eyelid becomes puffed and swollen.

So great is the swelling that it appears as if the entire eyelid is infected. But when examined closely, a small yellow spot will be seen in the center of the swelling. This is the real site of the infection.

Like an abscess anywhere else in the body, it will gradually grow larger and more painful. If it ruptures the pus escapes, the swelling decreases and the pain disappears. Unfortunately, this relief is only temporary and without proper precautions the abscess reforms within a short time.

Hot Applications
It is well to apply hot applications of boric acid solution to the inflamed eyelid. These should be continued until the abscess is pointed and ready to be opened. This should be done by your physician. Skilled care does away with the danger of further infection and hastens recovery.

An ointment of yellow oxide of mercury is a favorite prescription. The ointment is applied to the eyelids before retiring at night. In the morning the eyes should be cleansed with warm boric acid solution. Your doctor will advise you more in detail.

Most persons rarely, if ever, have sties, while others are very likely to have them. We think their presence is due to lowered resistance on the part of the individual. This may be the result of too little sleep, overwork or exposure to dust, cold or dampness. Frequently the trouble is the result of overuse of the eyes.

It is important to guard the eyes against strain by wearing the proper glasses. The eyes should be protected from dust and irritating vapors.

(Owing to pressure of other business, Dr. Copeland cannot answer questions from readers.)

and tell her all sorts of foolish tender things. Or failing that, he wanted to send her dozens of long-stemmed carnation roses. Or at least telephone her from the city and dragstore and tell her how marvelous she had been in an insignificant part. He would say, "This is Tommy Gale, Caroline... I had to call you up and tell you how sompletely swall you were..."

But what was the use?

Since that day, weeks before, when she had come to the flat, he had seen her only a few times and never alone. It was better this way, she had been pleasantly impersonal each time they had met. There had been no trace of that sweet, tense intimacy in her manner which had made their first encounters so memorable, so pulse-swinging. It was better this way, of course. In a little while, and if he was careful to keep away from her, she would forget that once she had liked him, trusted him and had been hurt when he let the thing drop, when he didn't go on with it.

And so it was Alec who sent her crimson roses on that opening night. Who told her how marvelous she was. Who took her, with Gina and Barry Bedard, to a supper club later where, because she was with Alec, and young and excited with her first taste of success, people looked at her appreciatively and came up and said all sorts of pleasant, flattering things.

Engineers Testify In Plea To Prevent "Hot Mix" Payments

COLUMBUS, May 16.—Testimony of two highway engineers before the recent senate investigating committee was admitted today by Common Pleas Judge Henry L. Scarlett as evidence in a plea by Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson for a temporary order restraining further payments by the state of contracts involving the Hot Mixed Bituminous Industry of Ohio, Inc.

Transcripts accepted were those of Harry A. Sparks, until recently a state highway bituminous engineer, and C. A. Niple, engineer for suburban Upper Arlington and Grandview Heights.

Offering the testimony, Ben F. Levinson, an attorney, said:

"We are offering it to show that subdivisions in the state were getting the same material as the state was buying for from $8.22 to $9.75 per cubic yard."

Earlier, John J. Jaster, Jr., state highway director, testified that bid prices for "hot mix" material used on several paving projects ranged from $11.50 to $16.50 a cubic yard.

Mrs. Dickinson recently brought suit against the "hot mix" corporation, several state officials and 50 Ohio road contractors, demanding $6,000,000 for damages and alleged overpayments by the state. Later, she sought the injunction.

CHAPTER XVIII

Tommy thought, "She is going to come back to why I haven't seen her. She isn't going to let it go."

Caroline didn't. Making her voice steady and cool, she asked, "Why don't you decide you didn't want to see me again?"

He laughed and came and sat beside her in an armchair. "But I didn't decide anything of the kind.... It's just happened that way. I suppose I've been pretty busy with getting a new job and moving and one thing and another."

"No," she said, "that isn't good enough. I thought at first that I might be. Then I thought it might be the other girls.... But now I have seen you again, I know I can't get either of those things."

"How did you know that?"

"Because you were glad to see me when. When you leaned over the stair railing and saw who it was you were glad."

"You're awfully bright, aren't you? But I didn't have to be so bright to know that."

"It's right. I'm glad you're here. What?"

"Why haven't you called me up and seen a number of reasons. I like red-headed girls for one thing. I told you that, I think. Another thing—I don't like girls who turn out for glory."

"What do you mean out for glory?"

"Oh, you know. A stage career and all that."

"So that's why you haven't called me up? Because I'm red-headed and want a stage career?"

"Well, those are the only two things I can think of at the moment. There are probably others."

"Tommy," she said softly, "don't say this way."

"Don't be what way?"

She got up suddenly and began wandering around the room, his hand thrust deep in his pockets. He wished she would go. He wished she had never come. He didn't like her sitting there in his room on his red sofa. If he looked at her, he was lost. If he didn't at her he would probably go over to her and take her in his arms and start kissing her. The way they were acting. You liked her that first afternoon. You liked her a lot. And now you don't. At least you want me to believe you don't. Why?"

"Here," he turned abruptly away and stood looking out the window, frowning darkly. "I don't want to tell you something. I hate to but you've practically asked for it. Well, all right, here it is. I've been calling you up because I've been calling up someone else, see? I don't like you that first afternoon. I liked you. And if I hadn't liked the other girls.... well, who else? But I did meet her. She said I had been in love with her a while ago. Before I met you. And.... well, you see, these things happen you know. It happens to everybody....."

"Yes," said Caroline slowly, "of course. Then she said, 'Tell me the thing.... Is it that girl we met that day? Roxanne, wasn't it?'"

"Yes," said Tommy. "I'm sorry, but....."

"Yes," Caroline said levelly, "it was for it."

She stood up then and began pulling off her gloves. "I guess it was you were expecting this afternoon, wasn't it?"

"She's picking me up here to take her car and we're going out to the country for dinner."

"Yes, well, I suppose you think I'm a body of me, coming here like this, making you tell me all this. I don't see you think I haven't been good."

"No," said Tommy miserably, "I don't see you well. Honestly, I do think you're sweet."

"Do you?" Caroline looked at him for a moment, then she said, "I think I have been different girl, do you think."

"Listen," said Tommy harshly, "his young voice thumped, "how can I tell? And you're going to have a well career.... you're going long way. Alec says so and I ought to know."

"Yes," said Caroline. "Well, come and see me in my first part. It's just a walk-on with a few lines in the second act, but I'd like to know you were there."

"I'll come," promised Tommy, "and it's nice of you to be so sweet about this."

They were at the door now and she said, "No, don't come down with me. I'd rather you didn't see me."

So he didn't go down with her. And she was glad he didn't because halfway down she met Roxanne Talbot coming up. It was dark on the stairs.... or perhaps Roxanne didn't remember her. Anyway, she passed her other without speaking, but a moment later just as Caroline reached the street door she heard Roxanne the street door lay and quite sure of herself. "Hello, darling. I don't much like meeting strange females on your stairs. Who was she, anyway?"

Before Tommy could reply, Caroline had wrenched open the door and let herself out of the house. She stood for a moment, one hand pressed hard against her mouth, then she ran down the steps and turned south and walked rapidly for perhaps ten blocks before she realized that she was slowing her again and that all the time she had been walking in the wrong direction.

It was then that she realized that she might be going to cry and she signaled to a cruising cab. And then to her horror and dismay she did cry, quite noiselessly. Crouched far back in one corner of the cab. Tears running down her cheeks and splashing against her mouth.

When the cab turned into Tenth street she was still crying and she told the driver to go around the block twice. That would give her time to do something about her face. She couldn't go in and let Gina see her looking as disheveled and miserable as she must be looking. She had just got her first part in a New York play. She was supposed to be very happy.

Heaven bound went into rehearsal the third week in December and opened cold in New York the second week in January. It got good notices, none of which mentioned Caroline. But when it closed the first week in February, in spite of good notices, she got a much better part in a comedy which opened in Philadelphia, came into New York the following week, and was destined to run well into the summer.

This time the notices were also good, and Caroline was mentioned in three of them. One reviewer, whose opinion was read eagerly by the theater-going public, even went so far as to say, "Whoever she is and whenever she came from, here is a young actress who cannot speak three lines without lending vitality and importance to a scene."

So easily, then, was Caroline launched on the New York stage.

Less easily was she attempting to recover from her first life. Because Tommy Gale was her first love, and although neither of them knew it at the time, as long as she lived she was to have no other.

The night when Bond opened in New York, she was much concerned with whether or not he was in the audience than with whether she would go through her few lines adequately and without stagefright. It was only thinking he might be there that made it imperative that she do well the little that she had to do.

He was there. He sat alone at the back of the theater, and when the curtain went down he left quickly, but careful to avoid Alec and Gina and Barry Bedard, making no attempt to see Caroline.

Not that he didn't want to see her. He did. He wanted to go to her

At auctions, Marvin Holloman, well-known planter, sees Camel buyers pay top prices for the finer grades of his crops. Mr. Holloman says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay more and take the real choice lots of tobacco. That's why we tobacco planters, who know tobacco quality inside and out, make Camel our cigarette. Then we're sure we're smoking finer, COSTLIER tobaccos, and they sure make a big difference!"

"I'm a tobacco planter," says Mr. T. Strickland, who sold his highest grade tobacco to Camels. "Last year those Camel buyers bought up the finest lots of my tobacco. And they sure bid up to get them. There's a big difference in those expensive Camel tobaccos—so I smoke Camels myself. And there's your reason why most planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camel cigarettes, and you can bet those Camel buyers paid top prices for them. It's no wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobaccos — Camels! Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow tobacco know tobacco."

struggle is defeat by the Republicans in November, an eventuality that would make Pennsylvania a true keystone in the presidential election.

Lewis Silent

Lewis, in an apparently plain test of his political strength behind Kennedy, still maintained a personal silence today as Governor Earle dubbed the bushy-browed CIO chief the big issue.

Earle was deserted by Senator Guffey after he sided with the Democratic state committee supporting Jones for governor.

Sensor Guffey and Mayor Wilson (once a Republican, then non-partisan, now Democrat) issued what amounted to joint warnings of federal probes to come if there is any move to "steal the election" in Philadelphia.

Among the Republican candidates, State Senator G. Mason Oaxley's assertion that U. S. Senator James J. Davis had missed 1,000 Senate sessions at Washington brought an indignant denial from the reelection-seeking senator.

Oaxley is an opponent for the nomination.

Seventy-two year-old Gifford Pinchot, twice governor and seeking the Republican nomination again, is opposed by Judge Arthur H. James.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Err Kanner and family of East Palestine and Mr. and Mrs. Clair Conkle and son Cecil of New Waterford.

Insurgent Members Of Party Withdraw Move for New Unit

CLEVELAND, May 16.—State employees withdrew today from an insurgent movement in the Democratic party here following a meeting at the home of Martin L. Davey and W. B. Gongwer, leader of the "regular" Cuyahoga county Democratic organization.

Both confirmed the peace move after the session in Gongwer's office following a year of strained relations.

The insurgent group, chief of which was Dan W. Duffy, ally of the governor, began a campaign last December to oust Gongwer and set itself up as the "official" Democratic party organization.

Davey said "I told Mr. Gongwer that it was the settled policy of this administration to take no part whatever in purely local affairs."

Gongwer said "the governor and I had a very fine visit."

Democratic politicians believed that the regular Democratic organization would not now take an official stand in the primary contest between Davey and Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati for the gubernatorial nomination.

rough reception in the senate, which passed a different labor standards bill last year.

A group of southerners headed by Senator Harrison (D-Miss) is planning a vigorous fight against the bill. Although hopeful of defeating it outright, this bloc will center its first efforts on inserting wage differentials between the north and the south.

Democrats With Opposition The projected relief and wage-hour fights in the senate again will place in the opposition front lines many of the rebellious Democrats who joined with Republicans last year to kill the President's court reorganization bill.

Now that the session is drawing to a close, there have been indications that the spirit of Democratic revolt is fading, particularly in the house.

The chamber shelved a wage-hour bill in December, but last month there was a stampede to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's wish that the legislation be considered again. The latter action was in marked contrast to the house vote to pigeon-hole the government reorganization bill.

Mr. Roosevelt's followers have contended it resulted in part from the renomination victory of Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), an administration supporter.

The tendency of the house majority to fall into line behind the administration has been matched by a new spirit of aggression by house Republicans.

Salem Cachet Will Go On City's Outbound Air Mail

A special cachet for national air mail week, which opened Sunday, has been issued at the local post-office by Postmaster A. E. Beardmore. The distinctive postal seal will be stamped on all out-going air mail this week.

The cachet was prepared and drawn by Sidney Haimes, local artist. It is of particular interest to stamp collectors and is a good method of advertising the city of Salem.

Beardmore points out.

The cachet depicts the march of progress in Salem since the time of its founding in 1806 contrasting a covered wagon with the modern airplane.

A modern transport plane appears against the outline of the state while inscribed, beside the drawing of a log cabin are the words, "on the old corduroy road", now the Salem-Canton highway.

Haimes drew the seal without charge to the postoffice department.

The Salem High School Stamp club has arranged a stamp and cachet display in a window at the Lease drug store, E. State st. at Lincoln st. this week, while the Model Airplane Builders club of the Junior High school is sponsoring an exhibit of model planes in the Glogan-McCoy hardware store window on S. Broadway. H. F. Kelley is faculty advisor of the club.

Entrants In "Better Homes" Contest Have Chance To Win Two Prizes

ENTRIES FILED HERE ALREADY

Contestants Eligible To Capture Awards Both Locally And Nationally

The prospect of being able to win two first prizes totaling more than $10,000 is creating widespread interest in the "Better Homes For A Better Salem" contest and many contestants have already filed their entries according to Arthur L. Haessly of The Peoples Lumber company, which is conducting the competition.

The major aim of the contest is to focus attention on the need for building new homes and improving existing homes in Salem. Haessly said. "The very subject of this contest will also re-establish in everyone's mind the real significance the home as an institution which throughout the years has proved to be the bulwark of our national progress and happiness."

The Salem contest with cash prizes of $225, is being conducted in conjunction with the Johns-Manville national "Better Homes" contest which has a first prize of $10,000 and 109 additional prizes totaling $5,000.

"This gives every Salem contestant a chance to win twice with the one letter," Haessly explained, stating that both contests are on the subject, "What the Word 'Home' Means to Me," and all that is necessary to enter both is to make an extra copy of the letter and send it to national contest headquarters.

Anyone over 21 years of age who is either a home-owner or is considering the building of a new home may enter, Haessly said. The local contest will close June 1. The national contest closes July 20.

OAKLAND, Cal.—Mute evidence of a forest tragedy of probably 30 years ago came to light near here with the discovery of the heads of two si-point black-tailed deer.

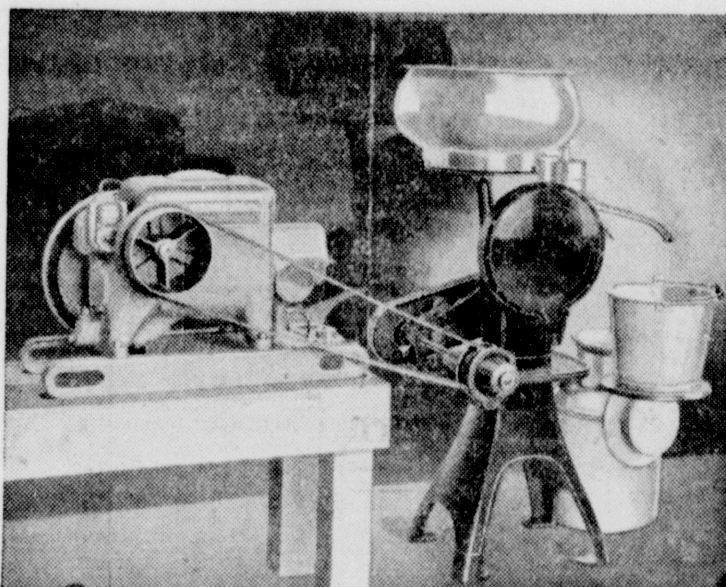

The animals had interlocked horns in deadly combat, and being unable to disentangle them, had starved to death together.

Cream Separator Is Money-Maker

A cream separator can be a money maker—or it can steal profits. This statement was made by the management of the Salona Supply Co., which handles the new McCormick-

Deering cream separator. Pictured above is a McCormick-Deering separator being economically operated by a 1 1/2 h. p. engine.

Close skimming is the secret of its money-making features, plus the fact it is made with stainless steel discs which are tough, strong and closely grained metal, absolutely rust-proof all the way through. The bowl will remain in balance and give good, clean, sanitary service much longer than many others on the market.

The McCormick-Deering milk separator has a great reputation for its features of sanitation which make it possible to produce a high-grade of milk with low bacteria count.

STRATTON FIRM WIDELY KNOWN

Honest Workmanship, Good Materials, Attention to Details Are Its Recommendations

Installation or repair of plumbing, to meet every specification, calls for attention to detail which is one of the primary earmarks of the work of a master plumber.

Slipshod plumbing work does not long survive and it might be said in this connection, the plumber who is guilty of this type of work might well be classified similarly.

Good materials, skilled workmanship and sincerity of purpose have long been associated with the name of J. R. Stratton, one of the oldest and best known plumbers in the district.

The Stratton company's work is guaranteed, with the stamp of reliability on every job, whether it is large or small. And, it might be mentioned, no job is too large and none is too small. In either event the customer is sure of the same painstaking, careful attention in every detail.

WOODVILLE, Cal.—Floods which trapped all wild animal life in the vicinity onto the top of a single knoll, enabled three men to kill 700 squirrels. Other animals which had sought refuge there in large numbers consisted of snakes, rabbits, skunks and even a badger.

MANY INSPECT PARIS CO. PLANT

Benton Road Establishment Known As One Of Most Efficient In District

Would you drive 100 miles or more to see a dry cleaning plant? More than likely not, but this distance and more has been covered by a good many dry cleaners who have come just to see the plant on Benton road operated by L. C. Price, known to all Salem as the Paris Cleaners.

If you were a dry cleaner and contemplated installing new machinery, or were interested in learning new methods, you would visit plants that had the most modern machinery and methods in daily operation. That's why Price is so often found showing brother cleaners through his establishment.

To Price, pride and ownership of so modern an establishment as the Paris Cleaners is a source of real joy and pleasure.

Of course, he wishes to realize a reasonable return on his investment and effort, but above all he wishes to be known among the dry cleaners as a leader, one who never becomes self-satisfied and one who will always keep posted on new developments and install whatever is invented that will keep his plant long jumps ahead of most others.

COUNTY TRACK MEET SET FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

RAIN AND COLD WEATHER HALTS MEET SATURDAY

County Track and Field Meet To Be Held Under Lights Here

Postponed from Saturday due to inclement weather, the 35th annual Columbiana county track and field meet will be held under the lights at Reilly stadium tomorrow night with five schools bidding for the championship now held by the history of county track and field competition that the meet has been held at night.

Cold weather and a steady drizzle of rain caused the meet to be postponed from its originally scheduled date. If rain should set in again tomorrow, the meet will be switched to Wednesday night.

Preliminaries in the dash and hurdle events and prelims and finals in the shot-put and discus will get under way at 6 o'clock. The finals in all but the weight events will start at 7:30.

The finals in the shot-put and discus will be run off along with the prelims because it is impossible to hold these events under the lights without endangering spectators and competitors.

In addition to Salem, the defending champion, other schools in the meet are: East Palestine, Columbiana, Lisbon and Leetonia.

Columbiana is the favorite to succeed Salem as champion by reason of its impressive showing in recent major meets. The county's namesake team won the Class B Poland relay and finished second among more than 40 Class B teams in the Ohio Wesleyan relays.

Salem and East Palestine are expected to give Columbiana a stiff race for team honors, but neither of these schools is believed to have enough strength to defeat the favorite. The chances of Salem or East Palestine to capture the championship rest on the ability to pick up second and third place points.

Columbiana is practically certain to capture eight first places through the performances of its outstanding stars—Bill and Bob Entriens and Richard Fisher. Bill Entriens is favored to win the 220 and 440-yard dashes and the broad jump; Bob Entriens is expected to take the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles, while Fisher looms as the best of the field in the 100-yard dash and the shot-put.

The other first place assured the Columbiana team is in the 880-yard relay, in which the Entriens brothers and Fisher combine their running ability with another good sprint star, Bauer.

The time schedule for the meet follows:

Preliminaries
6:00 p. m.—100-yard dash; shot-put.
6:25 p. m.—120-yard high hurdles.
6:50 p. m.—220-yard dash; discus.
7:00 p. m.—220-yard low hurdles.

YAWKEY MONEY SPENDING NOW SHOWS PROFIT

Grove and Foxx Set Pace As Red Sox Improve In League Race

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.
It was a long time coming, but it begins to look as if the benevolent Mr. Tom Yawkey finally has hit the jackpot after tossing all those millions into his Boston Red Sox.
Heading westward for their first swing round the circuit, the Gold Hose Mr. Yawkey put together by turning over huge wads of cash to Connie Mack and various other ivory dealers, are in first place in the American league and sporting an eight-game winning streak that shows no signs of letting up.

So far this spring everyone's doing his part in the drive. Five of the regulars are hitting better than .300; the pitchers are clicking.

The chief factors in the recent successes are the aging but still agile left arm known as Robert Moses Grove, and the long-range cannon known as James Emory Foxx. Both graduates of the University of Mack (Shibe Park, Philadelphia).

Take Lefty, who was 38 last March, a baseball age that corresponds to an address in the old men's home. But he's still the greatest southpaw elbow in this generation has produced. He hasn't hit his speed any more, but he's pitching with his stuff and his brains and is the No. 1 American league flinger with six straight victories and no defeats. He chalked up No. 6 yesterday by a 4-3 margin over the Washington Senators.

Then Foxx, Jimmy's as nice a fellow as you'd want to meet. Everybody likes him and he's good to his family. But what he's doing to American league pitchers this season is a caution. To date, he's hitting .364, and is the big league's leading home run hitter with eight round-trip wallops. But the most amazing product of his pounding is 39 runs driven in in 23 games, nearly twice as many as anyone else in either league.

Through yesterday's defeat, the Senators dropped to fourth place in the league standings, and the Yankees and Indians, whose games with Philadelphia and Chicago were rained out, advanced to a tie for second. In the only other American league game, Oral Hildebrand allowed two hits for five innings, nearly twice as many as anyone else in either league.

The Chicago Cubs dropped their second overtime decision in a row to the Pittsburgh Pirates, with Johnny Dickshot's single in the 11th sending the winning run across for a 4-3 Blue victory. The Cardinals also went into overtime before nipping the Cincinnati Reds, 1-1, on "Pepper" Martin's pinch single in the tenth.

Boston's Bees exploded a three home-run punch and trounced the Dodgers, 10-7. The Giants and Phillies were rained out for the second straight day.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

GROSSINGER'S LAKE, N. Y., May 16.—This is one of those old-time, friendly training camps. The beautiful spot where Barney Ross is prepping for Henry Armstrong reminds you of Loch Sheldrake, near here, where Jimmy Braddock got ready to win the title from Earl of Grand Beach, Mich. where Jim prepared for his losing battle with Joe Louis, and of beautiful Saratoga where Jack Dempsey was a regular at old Tom Luther's place.

Here the larch string is out. State troopers do not patrol the front of the pretty cottage where Ross spends most of his time when on the road or in the ring. Newspapermen, their telegraphers and almost everyone else is free to come and go, any time.

Quite different from the Schmieding camps where Max buries himself far away from the center of things except for the 10 minutes he grants the press after each work-out, and of some of the other camps this writer has visited.

All three of the cars leaving the Hippodrome in New York yesterday for Barney's camp ran into trouble with the law. The first was stopped by a state trooper. It seemed there was something wrong with the license plates. Just when it seemed we would be shunted to the sidelines for the day, Col. D. Walker Wear, of the state boxing commission, rose in his seat, made a powerful speech and the trooper waved us on with a flourish. The second car got two tickets, one for speeding and the other for reckless driving. The third was stopped by a Jersey cop, who swore the redoubtable Mr. Igoe was hitting her up at around 70 and it took Hype a good hour to talk his way out of the situation.

Barney Ross laughs off reports from Chicago that he'll quit after this bout, win, lose or draw. "I'm just beginning to make real money," he says. First thing after knocking out Mann, Tony Galento visited Jim Braddock's place. A waiter passed around a tray of beer. Our hero took two and downed them in four gulps.

LEADING THREE YEAR OLDS MAY MEET IN STAKE

Lawrin, Stagehand and Dauber Will Vie At Arlington Park

By ORLA ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, May 15.—Lawrin, Stagehand and Dauber—there's the big three of the three-year-old turf division.

Lawrin won the Kentucky derby; Stagehand came through in the Santa Anita derby and handicap; and last Saturday Dauber entered the select group with a galloping scotch in the muddy Preakness—richest race of the year exclusively for three-year-olds.

Dauber has bowed to both of his rivals but off his performance in the Preakness he appears worthy of giving them a race when they hook up again, probably in Arlington park classic late in July. The blazed-face chestnut from William Duport, Jr., Foxcatcher farm dropped a half-length decision to Stagehand in the Santa Anita derby and trailed Lawrin by a length in the Kentucky classic after Stagehand had been forced out by illness.

Dauber's next start will be in the $50,000 added Belmont stakes at Belmont park June 4. Since the race is a mile and a half and neither Stagehand nor Lawrin is eligible, he figures to be the shortest kind of a favorite.

The Foxcatcher colt needed to be a mudder in the Preakness. Not since Nellie Morse won in 1924 had weather conditions been so bad for Preakness' rich race. A biting rain made 25,000 fans uncomfortable and turned the racing strip into a quagmire. Yet the son of Pennant-Ship O'War stepped the mile and three-sixteenths in 1:59 4-5 only three seconds slower than the track record established three days before by Pompoon in the Dixie handicap.

Dauber broke slowly, as usual, and was next-to-last going around the first turn. He still trailed far back at the half-mile post. Then Maurice (Moose) Peters, 21-year-old Brantford, N. D. jockey, called out the big chestnut. He quickly overhauled all except Menow, then started tossing mud into the face of Hal Price Headley's star as they straightened out for the run to the judges.

New Jersey Lineman Wins 31-Mile Marathon Honors

CINCINNATI, May 16.—Leo Schnepel returned to his job of walking the power lines as trouble shooter near Elizabeth, N. J., today with the national A. A. U. 50-600 meter walking championship trophy in his possession.
The 40-year-old representative of the Polish Falcons club yesterday led the field of 20 other marathon walkers through rain and hail to take first place in 5:18:50.2.

Schnepel, finishing his aching feet after rubbing the grueling test, said he entered competitive walking in 1930 when he developed his leg muscles by walking 20 miles a day as trouble shooter.

John Abate of Cincinnati crossed the tape five minutes and 50 seconds later for second place and Joseph Roehoff of Cincinnati took third place in 5:31:15 time.

The field of 21 started at Neville and encountered a rain and hail storm after 20 miles of the more than 31 miles distance.

Hans G. Heyer of Milwaukee led the field of 16 recreation division walkers over the same distance in six hours and 22 minutes.

Deputy Case and Patrolman

Early, outside, didn't get a chance to use their guns.

Lodge officials said there was about $400 in the safe and police said they believed the robbers intended to "blow" the combination. The officers expressed the theory that the man standing by the door had intended to return to the car, as soon as Sergeant Mock and the janitor had been trussed up to get safe-blowing tools from the machine.
